Sitton Spelling and Word Skills™

Grades 1–8  Rebecca Sitton

Spelling instruction that transfers to everyday writing

Ensure students’ transfer of spelling skills through

- students’ discovery of spelling skills and concepts through word collections and analysis
- spelling mastery of high-frequency writing words
- a focus on students’ proofreading accountability

PLUS:

- Opportunities to differentiate instruction
- Formative assessment of spelling skills
- A menu of instruction for customized curriculum development

Sitton Spelling and Word Skills™ offers opportunities to differentiate instruction, formative assessment of spelling skills, and a menu of instruction for customized curriculum development.
Skills and Concepts for Grade 3

- spelling by analogy (_est: best, guest, quest)
- short and long vowel spelling patterns (long a: stay, train, space)
- consonant spelling patterns (/k/: came, kite, back, question, school)
- soft/hard consonant spellings (c: city, bicycle, once; second, American, cutting)
- consonant blends (_r: try, group, throne)
- irregular spellings (through, thought, great)
- multisyllabic words (together, important)
- silent letters (castle, write, take, bright, lamb)
- spelling digraphs (both, white, crash, children)
- spelling diphthongs (/ou/: sound, clown; /oi/: point, boy)
- spelling double-letter words (across, usually, beginning)
- spelling vowel-r (/or/: morning, before)
- spelling soft-syllable endings (/ær/: ever, color, dollar)
- letter substitutions (letter-card manipulations)

Further, students learn strategies that enable them to anticipate the spelling of a word, such as when /k/ follows a short vowel, it is usually spelled _ck (luck), and when /k/ does not follow a short vowel, it is usually spelled _k or _ke (bark, like). The _ke spelling is signaled by a long vowel sound. Students learn that this concept also applies to /ch/ (lunch, catch) and /j/ (judge, large).

Spelling experiences are integrated with opportunities for language growth, such as identifying and spelling antonyms (always/never), synonyms (large, huge, gigantic), homophones (there/their/they’re), homographs (live, read, does), possessives (Dan’s, student’s, ours), regular and irregular plurals (hats, inches, ladies, children), contractions (couldn’t), compound words (something), multiple meanings (feet), idioms (to change hands), analogies (came : come :: said : say), sorting words (by meaning, phonetic properties, structural attributes).

Students explore other word forms of high-use writing words through the addition of prefixes (re, un) and suffixes (s, ed, ing, es, er, est, ly, ful, y), and the basic rules that govern their use, such as the addition of suffixes to words in which the final consonant is doubled, the final silent _e is dropped, the final _y is changed to _i, and the final letter is _s, _x, _sh, _ch, or _z. Further, students explore irregular verb forms.

Explicit instruction in visual skills is essential, including the Word Preview. Then students apply these skills in writing and proofreading.

Students need abundant writing opportunities to work toward the mastery of Core Words 1–335, to grow them into many more words, and to maintain 100% accuracy in all everyday writing for Priority Words 1–55 (by the end of the school year).
Build Skills and Word Experiences

Build Visual Skills
Do the Word Preview, a visual warm-up activity, with all students.
Use Core Words sure (251), knew (252), it's (253), try (254), told (255).

Core Words are not the unit's spelling words. They are used here to build visual skills.

Build Spelling and Language Skills
Choose from among these quick tasks to customize instruction for all or selected students.

Its across the way.

What was that sound. Father told the children to try there best to keep very still. Soon they all knew for sure that it was only the water.

(questions mark, told, their, knew, sure) knew, right, sure, come, light, know, large, high, have (e.g., silent letter k/gh/e; number of letters)

my, try, by, why, ______, ______, ______
(words that end in long i spelled y)

It's always hard for me to tell my mother ____________.

Words that show possession, or ownership
(e.g., Mary's, theirs, its)
The Word Preview is a visual skill building activity, a prerequisite for good spelling and proofreading. The purpose of this activity is to develop a skill that students can use to improve their daily writing. Research indicates that the ability to picture a word and its sequential letters is a skill of able spellers. Students who apply these skills will eliminate careless errors among known words in their everyday writing.

It is important to note that Word Preview is not a pretest and does not introduce the spelling words for the unit. The Word Preview instead introduces Core Words, words used to develop students’ visual skills. The number beside the Core Words indicates each word’s frequency of use in writing.

Word Preview Procedure:

Teacher

1. Say the word.
   Say the word in a sentence.
   Say the word again.

2. Ask students to write the word.

3. Spell the word aloud.

4. Print the word on the board, saying the name of each letter as it is printed.

5. Observe students.

Students

1. Look at and listen to teacher.

2. Print the word in the “write” (left-hand) column of their paper.

3. Proofread the word by touching each letter as the letter name is said. Circle errors.

4. Look at the chalkboard and listen to the teacher.

5. Rewrite the word in the “rewrite” (right-hand) column of the paper.

If a word is misspelled in the rewrite column, make a small dot next to the word to indicate a mistake. Errors should be corrected by students. Students should match the word they wrote to the model written by the teacher.

Exercise Express consists of six quick activities that teach students processes and strategies for examining and thinking about words, their patterns, and their application in writing. Activities vary in difficulty and skill focus so that practice can be differentiated among diverse learners.

- Stretch It: Take a bare-bones sentence and embellish it to make it more informative and interesting.
- Add It: Examine a bank of words to discover a commonality and/or pattern, and add words to the bank that reflect the criterion.
- Fix It: Proofread a sentence for spelling, homophone usage, capitalization, and punctuation.
- Finish It: Poses an intriguing, but incomplete thought for students to finish.
- Sort It: Compare and contrast words by their patterns and characteristics.
- Find It: Calls for word observation with a stated criterion, finding and writing more words, and proofreading words.

For detailed product information, visit www.epsbooks.com/sittons spelling.
Build Basic Concepts

Choose from among these skill-building activities to customize instruction for all or selected students.

concept one

A contraction is a combination of two or more words with an apostrophe replacing a letter or letters.

1A Organize students into six cooperative groups. Assign a contraction set to each: will/shall, would/had, have, is/has, not, are. Have groups brainstorm contractions. Then discuss the results of each group’s effort. Make a complete list of contractions on the chalkboard. Include I’m and let’s. Next, use the not and are contractions for review (Activity 3A, page 34) and the others to further your class book series on contractions.

1B Demonstrate testing its/it’s for which is correct: If it makes sense to say it is, use it’s. If not, use its. Dictate these sentences for students to write. After each, write the sentence on the chalkboard and apply the test.

- It’s time to go.
- The dog is in its house.
- Tell us when it’s over.
- We all think it’s great.

Follow up with students writing sentences for it’s and its. Then have students read their sentences to a partner. The partner responds with the correct it’s/its.

Have students make word cards (use the Word Card Blackline Master, page 401) for it’s/its. Say sentences that use it’s/its and have students hold up the correct card. Reuse these cards as needed.
Students become better spellers when spelling is not limited to learning words but expanded to learning the language skills and concepts that form the foundation for word study. The Seeds for Sowing Skills activities develop skills and concepts while using an instructional format that fosters total language development – hearing, speaking, reading, writing, and critical thinking. These activities provide students with opportunities to explore words, make spelling generalizations, and become independent, strategic spellers.

Personalizing Instruction
Seeds for Sowing Skills provides a menu of activities for each spelling concept. Targeted skills are listed in the side notes for easy reference. This extensive resource allows teachers to formulate a personalized instructional plan. Activities can be selected to meet the needs of students; to complement reading and language arts programs currently in place; and to reflect school, district, or state curriculum.

Aiding Long-Term Memory
Skills and concepts are recycled throughout the Sourcebook and across subsequent levels of the Sourcebook. This recycling provides ongoing exposure and reinforcement to aid long-term learning. Research shows that repeated exposure over time is essential for mastery, so all students benefit from revisiting important skills and concepts.

Recycling of skills and concepts lets teachers decide which ones to teach now, and which to introduce or revisit later.
Demonstrate testing let's/let's for which is correct: If it makes sense to say let us, use let's. If not, use let's. Dictate these sentences for students to write. After each sentence, write the sentence on the chalkboard and apply the test.

Let's play ball!
He lets me in for free.
Let's go home.

She lets her hair dry in the sun.
He said, “Let's be quiet.”
Who lets the dog out at night?

Follow up with students writing sentences for let's and lets. Then have students read their sentences to a partner. The partner responds with the correct let's/lets.

Have students make word cards (use the Word Card Blackline Master, page 401) for let's/lets. Say sentences that use let's/lets and have students hold up the correct card. Reuse these cards as needed.

Post Teaching Poster 1. Chant the rhyme and review there/their/they're. Then ask students to write the contraction they're in its longer form (they are). Next, ask students to find a sentence in print material that uses they're. Have them write the sentence—then rewrite it using they are.

Many people are very busy, so shortcuts that save time and effort are widespread. A speech and writing time-saver is the contraction. Shortcuts, such as don't and can't, began circa 1642. Yet, the use of contractions was forbidden in formal writing because it was thought to reflect sloppy speech. This prohibition is now eroding, however, and contractions are no longer considered careless or too casual for most written work.

concept two

Some words have silent letters.

Write on the chalkboard: rose, write, line, above, sure. Ask students how these words are alike (final silent e). Remind students that some words have silent letters. Review final silent e words using student-made word cards (Activity 1A, page 102). Then, working in pairs, one student draws a word card from the pile (face down) and gives a clue for the word. The partner writes the word. Then the spelling is checked against the word card. Redistribute the word cards and have students replay the game.

Select a student to write knew on the chalkboard. Underline the silent k. Provide clues for students to identify more silent k words (e.g., knife, knee, know, knit, kneel, knock, knuckle, knead). Write the words on the chalkboard as students predict the spelling. Then have students gather knock-knock jokes from among those they’ve heard or those in joke books (e.g., Knock. Who’s there? Lettuce. Lettuce who? Lettuce in, and you’ll find out!). Create a class book of knock-knock jokes.
Opportunities for Differentiation

Seeds for Sowing Skills activities present teachers with a variety of opportunities to differentiate instruction:

Multiple activities for every concept
- all students are engaged in the same concept, at the level that best suits their needs
- each unit includes ideas for more challenging extension activities

Flexible instructional formats
- activity formats include teacher-directed (whole class or small-group), partner, cooperative group, and independent work
- all activities can be used in the instructional format that best meets student needs

Recycling of skills and concepts
- ongoing exposure and reinforcement aids long-term learning
- students who initially struggle may better grasp a skill or concept when it is revisited in a later unit

ONE SIZE DOES NOT FIT ALL!
2C Ask students to take turns writing their name on the chalkboard. Then identify the silent letters in students’ names.

2D Revisit the silent k words (Activity 2B, this unit). Review silent t and w, as in often and write (Activity 2A, page 34); and gh and mb, as in high and lamb (Activity 1D, page 102). Make a generous list of words with silent letters on the chalkboard. Then have student pairs select a word to begin a word chain to add to the word chain bulletin board (Activity 1A, page 152).

concept three

A prefix is a letter or letters added to the beginning of a word. A suffix is a letter or letters added to the end of a word.

3A Write on the chalkboard: He’s sure that it’s his bike. Then challenge students to change sure to not sure in the sentence by writing only two letters (unsure). Have a student change sure to unsure in the sentence. Remind students that a prefix is a letter or letters added to the beginning of a word—un is a prefix. Have students brainstorm more words with the un prefix (e.g., unable, uneven, unused, unwanted, unkind, unhappy, unclean, undo, unlucky). Write the words on the chalkboard as students predict the spelling. Help students discover that the un prefix means not or opposite of.

Ask students what we call a letter or letters added to the end of a word (suffix). Write surely on the chalkboard. Use surely in oral sentences to confirm its meaning. Note that the final silent e is not dropped because the suffix doesn’t begin with a vowel. This principle is usually true; however, one exception is true (truly). Have students find and write more words that end in silent e to which the ly suffix can be added (e.g., lonely, completely, lively).

Have students fold story paper in half to make two boxes. In one box have them write and illustrate a sentence using a word with the un prefix. In the other, have them write and illustrate the same sentence, but with the un prefix removed from the word (e.g., It is unnecessary to call me. It is necessary to call me.). This activity helps students contrast the meaning of words with/without the un prefix.

The most common spelling of /sh/ is ti, as in nation. This accounts for about 53% of the /sh/ spellings. Of course, sh spells this sound—26% of the time. Words with a French origin spell the sound with ch, for example chic and chef. Other /sh/ spellings include ci (special), ce (ocean), es (pressure), si (mission), and sci (conscious). The /sh/ is spelled with a single s in only two words (or their word forms)—sugar and sure.

• Challenge students to find words in which the initial s spells /sh/.
Student Practice Books correlate to Seeds for Sowing Skills activities.

Add the re or un prefix to each word. Write the new word on the line. Then answer the question.

1. Add un to tied.
   What might have happened when the zookeeper ____________________ the lion?

2. Add un to usual.
   What would be ____________________ weather for your city this time of year?

3. Add re to use.
   What items do you ____________________ at home instead of throwing them away?

4. Add re to read.
   Why might someone ____________________ a book?

A prefix changes the meaning of the word! What did you discover about the meanings of the prefixes un and re?

1. When you add the un prefix, it changes the new word to mean

2. When you add the re prefix, it changes the new word to mean

Find and write more words that have the un and re prefixes. Are there words to which you might add either prefix—un or re—to make new words?
Write on the chalkboard: Please tell the story again. Read the sentence—then cross out again. Ask students to add a prefix to a word in the sentence that will make the sentence mean exactly the same thing (retell). Ask students what we call letters added to the beginning of a word (prefix—re is a prefix). Have students work in pairs to brainstorm more words with the re prefix (e.g., relive, replace, rewrite, reopen, remodel, restudy, replay, replant, reread, reorder, redo, reuse, refill). Award students one point for each accurate word. Make a cumulative list on the chalkboard. Note that re means again or back. Then have students write the words on the chalkboard in alphabetical order.

Post 'Teaching Poster 3. Write tell on the chalkboard. Have students write tell and suffix forms of tell (tells, telling, told, teller). Write the words on the chalkboard for students to self-check. Note that the ed suffix is not added to tell—instead the spelling is changed to told in the past tense. Provide practice with more irregular verbs by dictating these verbs for students to write their irregular past tense forms: make, have, find, write, think, come, give, keep, know. Then write the words on the chalkboard for students to self-check.

Build Assessment Readiness

Use these at-school and at-home exercises to prepare all students for the Skill Test.

at-school

Ask students to write contractions. Time the session (about three minutes). Have students take turns writing one of their contractions on the chalkboard. Then choose another student to write its longer form next to it.

at-home

Send home a copy of TAKE-HOME TASK 17 BLACKLINE MASTER, page 166, with each student to encourage parent-child partnerships.

Build Proofreading Skills

Provide spelling application opportunities for all students.

Track students’ ability to meet a minimum competency for spelling and proofreading within selected samples of their everyday writing.

- Send home papers for proofreading and, if necessary, a copy of the IDEAS FOR PROOFREADING BLACKLINE MASTER, page 390.
Test Ready provides targeted practice for a specific skill prior to the upcoming Skill Test (see p.16). Students become better spellers when instruction is expanded to learning the language skills and concepts that form the foundation for word study.

This section has two parts, one labeled “at-school” for classroom practice, and one labeled “at-home” for homework practice. The at-home activity, called the Take Home Task, is provided as a Blackline master to send home to promote parent-child partnerships.

Priority Words develops proofreading skills in students’ daily writing, diminishing spelling errors where it most counts—their writing. Students proofread for assigned “Priority Words” and are expected to always spell them correctly in their writing. Priority Words come from the Core Words list, being those high-use words that are also commonly misspelled. This approach develops proofreading skills that students can apply to all words, but also gives specific practice with words often misspelled—even by adults.

The Priority Words List blackline master or Spell Check® Cards are provided to students as a proofreading reference. Priority Words are gradually assigned, and assignments can be differentiated with lower or higher expectations for some students. Additional Priority Words include frequently used words (teacher’s name, school name) or topical words related to units of study.

Proofreading skills are assessed using a small section of a randomly selected writing piece. Writing samples are not graded—students either meet the requirement or not—but the information contributes to the total spelling evaluation for each student.
Assess Words and Skills

- Spelling Words (words missed on tests) are recorded in the Spelling Notebook.
- Use Proof It, Practice Page 51, for proofreading/editing practice.

Assess Spelling Progress

Give this Cloze Story Word Test of Core Words within the frequencies 1–255 to all students. Words students miss are their Spelling Words.

 BEFORE THE CLOZE STORY WORD TEST

Students do not prestudy the words. Provide students with a copy of REVIEW 17 BLACKLINE MASTER, page 170. Tell students that this story will have them singing.

 THE CLOZE STORY WORD TEST

Read the entire story aloud, including the test words. Then read it again slowly as students write the missing words.

Sing a Song

(1) There is a song you (2) knew when you were (3) little. You (4) still sing it (5) today. It is (6) sure to be sung to you (7) once a year. We are (8) told that (9) it’s the most (10) often sung song! Mildred Hill, a Kentucky (11) school teacher, wrote the melody, and her sister, Patty Hill, a principal, wrote (12) its words. (13) However, long ago the words were (14) different. The song (15) began, “Good morning to all, Good morning to all.” (16) Try to sing this song with these words. (17) Then write the song the way all of us (18) know it best.

AFTER THE CLOZE STORY WORD TEST

1. Have students recall and write the words to the familiar song, “Happy Birthday.” Then write the words on the chalkboard for students to self-check. Discuss the meaning of melody. Follow up by challenging students to write the words to one of their favorite songs.

2. Have students record the words they missed on the test
   • in their Spelling Notebook (see page 353) for at-school study, and

Words tested:
there (37), then (63), its (76),
little (92), know (100), different (139), still (153), often (186)

school (194), once (206), began (215), today (249), however
(260), sure (251), knew (252), it’s
(253), try (254), told (255)

Writing, proofreading

Recording words for personal study list

Words are listed with their frequency of use number. The lower the number, the more frequently a word is used.
The Word Test identifies the Core Words that students have not mastered and leads to individualized spelling lists for each student. Because Core Words are automatically recycled in subsequent tests, teachers do not need to create individualized tests. All Core Words, from the first word in Level 1 through to the current unit, form the word bank from which test words are drawn (see p.19 for further information about Core Words).

The Word Test uses a cloze story format—students write the missing words within a story. Students do not pre-study the test words in preparation for the test. This test assesses long-term mastery rather than short-term memory of words recently studied. (The Sourcebook’s Teaching Notes include many suggestions for modifying the Cloze Story Word Test for students with spelling challenges or for more capable spellers.)

Cloze Story Word Test Procedure:

- The entire story is read aloud, including the test words, as students silently follow along.
- The story is read again at an appropriate pace as students fill in the missing story words blank by blank.
- Students proofread their work by spelling each word silently or aloud as they touch each letter.
- When tests have been corrected, students check spellings of missed words against a copy of the Core Words Blackline Master and record the words in their:
  - Spelling Notebook—for at school study
  - Words to Learn Sheet—for at home study

The words students misspell become their words to study and learn. Because words are automatically recycled on subsequent tests, teachers do not need to create individualized tests.

Words can be added to More Words for Super Spellers for additional study.
CLOZE STORY SKILL-BUILDING EXTENSIONS

1. Have students circle and write the story words it’s and its. Have them explain in writing how these words are used differently.

2. Have students circle and write the story words still, long, and way. Then have students write each word in two sentences, each sentence using a different meaning for the word. Have students share their sentences.

3. Have students find and circle the story words when, were, wrote, words, with, and way. Then have students write the words in alphabetical order.

4. Have students write the story words sing, write, and know. Then have them add the appropriate suffixes and write the past tense word forms. Next, have students find and write more base words for which ed cannot be added, but the spelling changes instead.

5. Have students write the compound word birthday. Then have students find and write more compound words.

Assess Skill Application

Give this assessment of spelling and related skills to all students.

BEFORE THE SKILL TEST

Direct students’ attention to the Skill Test at the bottom of REVIEW 17 BLACKLINE MASTER, page 170. Read the directions as students follow along.

AFTER THE SKILL TEST

Note the ability of each student to write contractions. Use the Word Test to evaluate each student’s ability to discriminate between it’s/its.
The Skill Test assesses students’ understanding and/or application of selected spelling and language-related skills. Students have previously had multiple experiences learning and applying the skill before it is tested on the Skill Test, and the preceding Test Ready (see p.12) activities help prepare students for the test.

The Skill Test can be administered along with the Word Test or after the Word Test at a later time. It can be administered on any day of the week. The Teaching Notes in the back of the Sourcebook give suggestions for modifying the test for students with spelling challenges and for more capable spellers.

Extend Spelling Assessment

Give this in-context assessment of Core Words within the frequencies 1–255 to students who need more practice or challenge.

BEFORE THE SENTENCE DICTATION TEST

Students do not prestudy the words. Provide students with writing paper and pencil.

THE SENTENCE DICTATION TEST

Have students write the sentences as they are dictated.

1. The school play and music show will begin soon.
2. It’s sure to be an important night on the stage.
3. The children were told by everyone to try very hard.
4. Their mothers and fathers knew they wanted to do their best.

AFTER THE SENTENCE DICTATION TEST

1. Based on what the sentences say, have students write how they think the children in the school play and music show are feeling. Have students write about a time they felt the same way. Remind students that their explanation should have a beginning, a middle, and an end.

2. Have students record the words they missed on the test
   - in their Spelling Notebook (see page 358) for at-school study, and
   - on a copy of the Words to Learn Blackline Master, page 392, for at-home study.

Send home the completed Words to Learn personal study list and, if necessary, a copy of the Ideas for Word Study Blackline Master, page 391.

Words tested:
- the (1), and (3), to (5), on (14), they (19), be (21), by (27), were (34), an (39), their (42), do (45), will (46), very (93), show (184), want(ed) (193), school (194), important (195), children (200), mother(s) (226), father(s) (229), night (231), soon (236), hard (242), best (246), sure (251), knew (252), it’s (253), try (254), told (255)

Extra words (see page 356):
- begin, everyone, music, play, stage

XTRA WORDS
- begin, everyone, music, play, stage

recording words for personal study list

THE CLOZE STORY WORD TESTS AND SENTENCE DICTATION TESTS ALLOW YOU, THE TEACHER, TO BE A BETTER PRACTITIONER. THESE TESTS IDENTIFY STUDENTS’ SPELLING NEEDS. HOW CAN WE MEET STUDENTS’ NEEDS WITHOUT KNOWING WHAT THEY ARE?
The Sentence Dictation Test is an optional assessment that challenges students as they write complete sentences to form a short story. Students’ listening skills are measured, as well as their ability to use capitalization and punctuation properly.

Extra Words, words that are not part of the Core Word List, are included in the test and noted in the sidenotes. The Extra Words can be written on the board to be used as a reference to reinforce visual and proofreading skills, or if a reference is not provided, they can be used to provide informal assessment of a student’s ability to apply phonics skills to spell new words. They may reappear sporadically in the sentences, but they are not systematically recycled as the test words are.

As with the Word Test, students do not pre-study the words for the Sentence Dictation Test.

Sentence Dictation Test Procedure:

- All the sentences are read aloud to students.
- The first sentence is read, and students repeat it aloud in unison.
- Students write the sentence.
- The sentence is repeated, and students touch each word as it is reread.

These steps are repeated for all sentences, and tests are collected.

As long as a spelling reference is not used, the words the students missed become their spelling words to be added to their Spelling Notebook and Words to Learn Sheet.

Evaluating Spelling

There are many opportunities for evaluation of a student’s spelling and word skills performance. You can develop an assessment model that meets your needs from among several testing options in the program.

Your model should include three assessments that are administered to all students: the student’s spelling of Priority Words in their everyday writing, the Word Test, and the Skill Test. In addition to the required evaluation, there is potential for further evaluation using the following optional assessments: the Sentence Dictation Test, Exercise Express activities, and the skill-building activities in Seeds for Sowing Skills.

Whatever evaluation methods are used, it is important to note that the assessment in Sitton Spelling and Word Skills™ is far more useful than the grade given in a customary Friday test. The Friday test’s primary purpose is to provide a means of grading students. The purpose for each evaluation option in the Sourcebook is to maximize teaching and learning efficiency.
Additional Program Information

Explanation of the Core Words
Core Words are high-frequency writing words 1-1200, introduced in order of frequency of use. They are divided into grade levels 1–8 and are utilized in the Sourcebook in three different ways.

1. Core Words are used in the Word Preview to teach students to visualize known words and to check their ability to copy and proofread them.

2. Core Words are used in the Seeds for Sowing Skills section as a springboard to grow essential skills and concepts. The activities that grow from a single Core Word generate many more words so that students have word experiences leading to new understandings about their language. For example, the Core Word it’s (253) can be the starting point for a lesson about contractions, generating a much larger list of words using the contractions for have, not, will/shall, would/had, is/has, and are.

3. Core Words are used in the Word Test and Sentence Dictation Test to form the bank of words from which students are tested for spelling mastery. The Core Words used in these assessments can include any previously occurring Core Word.

Parents as Partners

To establish a strong home-school connection, and to contribute to overall student success, many opportunities exist for parent and family involvement. You can inform parents about the Sitton Spelling and Word Skills™ program and encourage their involvement in students’ learning in the following ways:

- Invite parents to view the Parent Introduction DVD of the Tutor Me® Training series to give them an informative overview of the program.
- Send home the parent letter “Introducing Spelling”, a Blackline master provided in the Sourcebook.
- Send home the Take Home Task, the at-home activity from the Test Ready section.
- Designate selected activities from Exercise Express and Seeds For Sowing Skills as homework.
- Send home a copy of the Words to Learn sheet, on which students have written their spelling words. Also send home a copy of the Word Study Blackline master, a letter to parents that provides suggestions for helping their children use a word study strategy.
- Send home the complete Core Words List for at-home study. Students cannot pre-study words before a specific Word Test, but parents can help students study the entire list throughout the year.

Frequently Asked Questions

How long should a unit take to complete?
• Do I need to start on Monday and end on Friday?
  No - a Sourcebook unit may take anywhere from 5 to 10 days to complete, depending on teacher choice. The classroom teacher is the one best equipped to determine how much time students will need to learn a specific skill or concept.

• Do I need to finish the Sourcebook by the end of the year?
  No - the skills, concepts and words tested are recycled across Sourcebook levels. As the Sourcebook levels progress, they include Core Words from previous levels, along with newly introduced Core Words. Because of the many opportunities for differentiation, each Sourcebook provides activities and support appropriate for a year and a half below and above a grade level, so a teacher can comfortably start instruction with the first unit of the Sourcebook at the start of the school year.

If you are interested in teaching your students how to effectively build their spelling and word skills — and ensure transfer of those skills into their writing — attend a Sitton seminar!

Our trainers are knowledgeable and enthusiastic, and the resources are invaluable. These fast-paced, one day seminars are designed to give you the strategies and support needed to go beyond memorization to get lifelong results.

How can I learn about the Sitton strategies?

Two ways to experience a Sitton seminar

1. Open Enrollment
   Attend one of these nationally scheduled seminars, open to individual registrations. Visit www.epsbooks.com/pd to find a location near you and register online, or call us at 888-WE-SPELL.

2. On-Site
   Contact us to bring a Sitton seminar to your school or district! Call us at 888-WE-SPELL to explore this option, or email us at sittonspelling@epsbooks.com with your questions.

You will learn how to:

- Systematically build your students’ spelling and word skills so you see results in their writing, vocabulary, and language use
- Differentiate instruction in a time-effective way for all ability levels
- Integrate thinking skills into your spelling instruction
- Use practical, formative assessments as an alternative to testing for a memorized list
- Use the 1200 Core Words as a catalyst for the discovery of hundreds more words, their meanings, and use
- Give your students the instruction needed to succeed in proofreading and be accountable for their spelling
- Include parents as supportive and effective partners
- And much more!
