Class Book Projects

The Sourcebooks are a spelling-for-writing program. One of the many ways to encourage students to write is through ideas for making Class Books. Look for these logos to locate these activities.

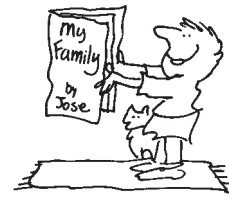

To make your class book projects exciting, check your Sourcebook Table of Contents for “Class Book Projects.” It is one of the many inclusions in your Sourcebook Reference section. Look at the ideas that await you!

Teachers—I'll send your class a very nice prize if you send me one of your class books that correlate with a Sourcebook activity! I like to show teachers in my seminars what great teachers are doing with their kids! Label your book with name/school/city/state information so that you and the young authors get the credit they deserve! Thanks!
